Phil's World –very small!
Turns up everywhere.

Phil caters for a wide range of styles and all levels from beginners to advanced (post-graduate). You can study electric, acoustic or bass guitars with a specialty in rock, blues and jazz styles.

Classical guitar and Ukelele offered from 2012

Tuition in theory (all styles), song writing (very popular) and music technology.

Record your achievements or ideas in the studio.

Current enhanced Criminal Records Bureau checked

References available.

Just for fun...

It's never too late to start - all ages welcome and we'll work out the best program for you. You probably just want to learn how to play some of your favourite, songs or maybe you'd like to write your own.

Also a great way to relax in a new hobby!

There is no need to be able to read music but I will teach you this if you want – it's not as hard as you might think. (well -I can do it)

Educational...

If you already studying on a music course and just need some help or want some advice about courses or careers as a musician get in touch. You can also study for music exams if you want.

I will be teaching ukulele from 2012 and will be Working with Minehead First School.

Make a note in your diary and add to your contacts!
Don't forget to come to your lesson!

All are welcome and a trial lesson or consultation can be arranged.

Music tutoring for school college courses!

I also have a large personal library of music and transcriptions in Pop, Rock and Jazz styles and offer help with technology and software.

If you study at my home I have a small purpose built studio where you can also record when you feel ready. I produce backing tracks which I intend to make available for download on the website (practice purposes only).

Oops!...

Charges vary depending on whether you book individual lessons or blocks of lessons and the level of your playing ability. I have to do more work for advanced students. Prices are always set at around the national average and I offer the highest quality tuition. Lessons can be arranged at students homes or community lessons in rural areas.
